Rating Scale Explanation - MUST BE COMPLETED BY SCHOOL Advisor

People seldom exhibit the same characteristics all the time. Usually, behavior falls on a continuum between “never” and “always”. The five point rating scale (5 being always) used below symbolizes the continuum. Check the point on the continuum most descriptive of the frequency with which the candidate you are evaluating evidences this characteristic. If you have not had the opportunity to judge the behavior in question, check the column headed N/I (No Information). Your supplementary comments will be extremely helpful.

CHARACTERISTICS	Never					Always
	N/I	1	2	3	4	5
LEADERSHIP – Takes initiative; is able to obtain cooperation from others.
PERSEVERANCE UNDER STRESS – Demonstrates the ability to make a sustained effort towards accomplishing a goal (for example, is likely to complete a rigorous academic education).
RELIABILITY – Is faithful to duties, has a sense of responsibilities in carrying out assignments.
COOPERATIVENESS I – Works effectively with peers.
COOPERATIVENESS II – Works effectively with supervisors.
ORAL COMMUNICATION – Speaks clearly with precision and accuracy, without ambiguity in day-to-day conversation.
WRITTEN COMMUNICATION – Writes precise, accurate, grammatically correct and unambiguous statements.
INTERPERSONAL REGARD – Exhibits nurturing behavior towards others, establishes esteem for others, recognizing their competence and worth.
VALUE ORIENTATION – Recognizes his/her own values, likes and dislikes. Comprehends and accepts habits and values of others unlike his/her own
FLEXIBILITY – Demonstrates the ability to break set patterns or ideas, observations, feelings, actions and responses. Is able to see things from several perspectives and is open to change.
ETHICS – Displays honesty, integrity and ethical behaviors.
PROBLEM SOLVING – Demonstrates the ability to make careful observations and construct logical inferences. Finds solutions to problems with only moderate assistance.
GLOBAL ASSESSMENT – Displays a combination of personality, judgment, integrity and suitable maturity.
COMMENTS – Please provide examples illustrating any of the above characteristics or provide additional characteristics that make this applicant a strong candidate for The Families of WWII Veterans Scholarship Committee.
